EMC in Danville named one of the Bay Area's Fastest Growing Private Companies

Danville, CA: EMC Creative, a Danville-based strategic marketing and communications agency was recently named the 54th fastest growing company in the Bay Area by the San Francisco Business Times. (Oct 19-25, 2007)—twenty seven years after its opening. “We’re just another overnight success story,” said President Colleen Edwards.

The company’s current full-time staff of 45 represents a 99.5% increase over 2006 levels. In response to a growing internet-based clientele, EMC Creative opened a San Francisco branch in August, located on Mission Street.

This month the firm was also ranked 17th in the SF Business Times’ 2007 Top 100 Women-Owned Businesses. (Oct. 17, 2007).

EMC specializes in marketing for the land development, home building and financial services industries, serving clients throughout California and the western United States.

Other recent awards for Edwards include her 2006 induction into the California Building Industry Association’s Hall of Fame, one of just five women in the history of the organization to receive this prestigious award. Also in 2006, Edwards received the Women of Distinction Award by the East Bay Business Times. (April 28, 2006).

Edwards has directed the efforts of EMC Creative throughout its 27-year history, and the agency has garnered more than a hundred advertising industry awards in recognition of campaigns for such clients as The Mechanics Bank, Signature Properties, John Laing Homes and Catellus.
